

Project Brief:

I am going to create a personal webpage, one that will display all my previously completed projects, integrated with full menu and side bar control. Proper href redirection and a very integrated css. With your permission, I would like to also integrate PHP as well, to put a tic tac toe game into the project. I would set up some html either using inline PHP(which tends to get messy) or I can integrate it in the php class. Using form I can create a grid and layout tic-tac-toe.